European Workshop for Librarians, September 19-20, 2013, Prague, Czech Republic

Librarians from 5 different European countries gathered in Prague on September 19-20th in order to attend the European Workshop for Librarians that was organized by DI-XL project. This seminar demonstrated the great potential of libraries to contribute to exploitation of results of the Lifelong Learning Program as well as the benefits that libraries may have from their participation in this process. Promotion and exploitation of results of these projects by libraries all over Europe will provide significant benefits for local communities especially regarding the increase of education and training opportunities.

Needs Analysis and Research Report

The research was organized through interviews and questionnaires in all the 5 countries of the consortium and has come to a conclusion that although the cooperation between libraries and LLP organizations is considered by both parties as potentially beneficial, the current level of cooperation is very low. The main actions to be taken in order to improve this situation have been identified in the report. The full report is available to download from the Di-XL website.
